BOOSTERS TO GREET NEW RESIDENTS

In an effort to help new residents become involved in the community, the Hinesburg Boosters are planning a new "Welcome to Your New Hometown" project.

Meeting at the Kali Yuga Kitchen November 4, the Boosters expressed concern that Hinesburg is becoming a bedroom community, in which newcomers have difficulty becoming involved. The group decided that the best way to involve new residents is to greet them personally.

They agreed that each new resident should be given a packet explaining Hinesburg—including information on the schools, churches, and activities. In addition, Hinesburg businesses will be asked to contribute gift certificates, to encourage new residents to patronize local businesses.

Preliminary work on the new project is being coordinated by Ed Burrington.

Also at the meeting, reports were heard from the Booster representatives to the Fourth of July Committee and to the liaison committee which is coordinating the Booster-Fire Department New Year's Eve Dance.

At the suggestion of Bill Allen, the Boosters agreed to provide hanging planters of flowers to be placed in front of homes and businesses on Route 116 in the village district. Anybody within the district who would like a basket for a home or business should contact Bill or any other Booster.

The next meeting of the Boosters will be at 6:30 p.m., December 2, at the Kali Yuga.

TRAFFIC LIGHT INSTALLED

The new traffic light at Route 116 and CVU road is the first step in an effort by the state to reduce traffic hazards at the intersection.

Gordon MacArthur, a representative of the Vermont Agency of Transportation, made a presentation to the Hinesburg Planning Commission October 21, explaining the state's solution to the traffic problems that have long concerned area residents.

The light will be constantly green for traffic on Route 116 until traffic on either of the crossroads activates the red cycle. When activated, the light will remain red for no more than 21 seconds, with an eight-second warning cycle to allow a car to clear the intersection.

The state proposes to reduce hazards caused by stopped vehicles at the light by reducing the speed limit in the area of the intersection. MacArthur said that according to the state's present analysis, there will be no problem with stacked traffic on Route 116 waiting for the light to change.

MacArthur said that although the light will not solve all problems at the intersection, it is a constructive first step.

The Transportation Agency plans to install a state-of-the-art timing/control system for the lights next summer. The state will make its final determination on how to deal with the traffic problems next summer, after it receives a report from traffic consultants who are studying the intersection.

PLANNING AND ZONING NOTES

At its October 21 meeting, the Hinesburg Planning Commission granted preliminary approval to Greg Tucker for a two-lot subdivision on the North Road. Conditions were attached to the approval.

In other action, the board approved site plans submitted by Richard Farnham for a health club in the Lyman Meadow project.

The Hinesburg Zoning Board of Adjustment met October 15. The board granted relief by variance to Julie Richards - allowing her a variance of 140 feet of frontage on her lot.

FOR THE RECORD

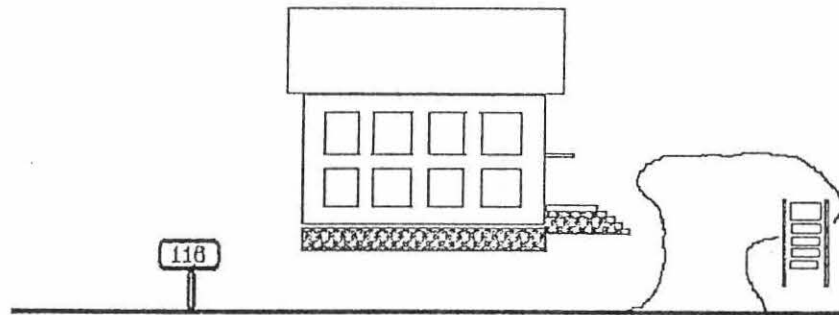

A record turnout of 22 Hinesburg residents responded to last month's pleas for a new name for this newspaper. Many submitted multiple entries in our "Name The Newspaper" contest.

Although there were many great suggestions, our judges gave the highest rating to the "Hinesburg Recorder," a name submitted independently by two prominent citizens, Ienza Fraser and Henry Carse.

Our editors did what comes naturally to editors, and shortened it down. With deep gratitude to all those who helped in our name search, we present the premiere issue of the Hinesburg Record.

HINESBURG BUSINESS PROFILES

This is a column of news and features about businesses located in Hinesburg. We hope to feature two or three businesses each month. Comments in this column should not be construed as editorial endorsement of one business, if similar goods or services are offered elsewhere in town. We do, however, encourage Hinesburg residents to learn more about the businesses in our town, and to patronize them. We welcome submitted articles, but reserve the right to edit.

Arthur's Deli

Where do harried Hinesburg residents turn when they're too busy to cook?

One answer is Arthur's Pizza & Deli at the intersection of Route 116 and Silver Street.

Owner-proprietor Arthur Goldsweig opened his business five years ago in the shopping center on the Mechanicsville Road. "I wasn't doing anything else at the time," he explains, "and there was a need for some type of delicatessen in this area."

Last year, Arthur's moved to its present location, which is larger, and more accessible to through traffic, than the former site. With increased space, Goldsweig was able to add pizza to the menu in August, and business has increased by 45 percent since then. Arthur's distinctive logo, a skyscraper rising above farmland, represents Goldsweig's vision of the positive aspects of the influx of urbanites into Vermont. He grew up in the New York City suburbs, but has established roots in Hinesburg. His civic activities have included terms as Hinesburg's representative to the Lake Iroquois Beach Association, and coaching of several ball teams. His wife, Shelly, serves on the School Board.

Kali Yuga Kitchen

Change is coming to Hinesburg's well-known full-service restaurant. The Kali Yuga Kitchen will begin a major landscaping project in the spring, as soon as ground conditions and construction at the Lyman Meadows Condominiums permit.

The parking lot will be paved and enlarged to accommodate 44 cars. Flowering crab apple trees and honey locusts will be planted around the restaurant. There will be a grassy area with picnic tables next to the take-out window. Planters filled with a profusion of flowers will grace the entrance.

Entrance to the parking lot will be from Route 116, at the Bristol end of the lot. The exit will be on Lyman Meadow Drive. The remainder of the lot's front will be mounded and planted with a lawn.

During this the Fourth Age, the Age of Kali Yuga, it is encouraging to know that owner Marian Welch and the Kitchen are easing all of our lives by providing more and better parking.

Upper Access Publishers

Unknown to many Hinesburg residents, two of the most talked-about books in the country were published in our town this year.

Upper Access Publishers operates from Steve and Lisa Carison's home on the Upper Access Road to Lake Iroquois.

Their first book, Caring For Your Own Dead, provides information on how to handle funeral arrangements with or without the help of a funeral director. It's been hailed by news media throughout the country - including the New York Times, CBS Television, The Boston Herald, Everybody's Money, and the San Francisco Chronicle.

Their second book, Letters From The Other Side, was written down by "automatic handwriting" by a blind woman between 1913 and 1917. It includes vivid descriptions of life after death, and is being ordered as a holiday gift by people throughout the country. The books, sold primarily by mail order, are available in Hinesburg at Lantman's store.

In addition to their publishing business, Lisa is a teacher in Essex Junction and Steve is a contributing editor for New England Builder Magazine.

Principal Sam Morse Retires

Sam Morse officially retired from HES on October 31, although he will continue as a consultant until the end of December. He has been principal for nearly ten years, succeeding Adler Muller in that position.

A resident of Salisbury, Sam has driven to HES through all kinds of weather each day, often not returning home until well after midnight on Board meeting nights.

Sam was honored by the staff at a recent dinner at the Holiday Inn. His wife, Phoebe, and children attended. In addition, a reception was held by the PTO, for parents and townspeople, at the school cafeteria.

He'll be remembered for a great many contributions to the quality of education in Hinesburg. Following are some of the comments by staff members to the Hinesburg Record.

Ellie Francis, Accountant: Sam had a willingness to listen to problems and suggestions. He had an open-door policy. I'll always remember his love for children. He was everywhere - classes, hallways, cafeteria, bus duty, and playground.

Robert Nicolino, Math: Sam was down to earth, a nice guy - one you had to like. Even when you disagreed with him, you had to like him.

Mary Lou Thorpe, Secretary: I was always impressed by his love for children, and his fairness in treatment of them.

Lisa Lovelette, Principal: Sam is the greatest mentor I've ever had in my professional career. He made a great impression on me as an assistant principal - he allowed me to be an assistant principal, not an assistant to the principal.

Sally Robertson, Assistant Principal: I appreciate the space he gave me to do a new job (guidance). Support was given in success and in failure - he is a true gentleman.

Joyce Bird, Food Service Supervisor: Sam always made a point each day to stop and say "good morning" or call out as he was passing through. He always made us feel we were part of the entire school system.

Carol Slesar, Grade 3 Teacher: I'm going to miss him. I told him my room is always open, for him to come back any time.

The 1987 addition to HES is nearly complete, and an open house is scheduled December 3. The project was estimated to cost $1.775 million for a new wing which includes four classrooms, a multi-purpose room, three offices, a home arts room (now used for French and health education), and a computer room. The old gym now houses music and art.

The new space is basically a Junior High (grades 6-8) facility. The gym/multi-purpose area is not yet complete. It is a handsome room with hardwood floors, a stage along one side, and lockers, storage, and showers at the end. A hallway leading to the northwesterly side entrance is unusually quiet, thanks to carpeting. The new classrooms have more windows than do the older rooms. The main office houses a modern PA system, and leads to the offices of the principal and assistant principal, as well as the guidance office.

The addition will be unveiled at an open house December 3, beginning at 7 p.m. The open house will be preceded by a spaghetti dinner sponsored by the PTO, to raise money for the new school playground.

The School Board voted October 19 to resume bus service on Hayden Hill. Resumption of service had been recommended by John Wood of the State Department of Transportation. Bus drivers will use discretion at any time the hill appears hazardous.

In other matters, the board heard reports from staff members Pamela Miller, on the Kodaly Music Method, and Ruth Hopkins, on the selection and assessment of students in the Gifted and Talented program.

Principal Lisa Lovelette announced a PTO Academic Spotlight Program for parents, townspeople, and board members. Programs focusing on specific academic areas are scheduled as follows:

January 7: Art, Music, and Phys Ed.

February 4: Special Ed, Speech, Language, and Chapter I.

March 3: Gifted and Talented, Computer, and Library programs.

April 7: Kindergarten screening procedures.

May 5: Language and Reading Strategies for Summer.

Each session will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the school. Just prior to each presentation, two staff members will give an overview of school activities.

Lisa Lovelette has been with the school system for more than a year, and was named Principal upon the retirement of Sam Morse.

In a recent interview, Ms. Lovelette discussed her plans for the coming year.

She expressed enthusiasm for a PTO series, Academic Spotlight, which is scheduled from January until May. (See schedule in School Board Notes.)

Lisa said a consultant from a Burlington firm, Professionals in Development, is working with staff on strike-related issues. The consultant has held meetings in September and October, and two sessions are scheduled in November.

The job of principal in Hinesburg is particularly challenging, for a variety of reasons, she said. The large school population spans from Kindergarten through Junior High, and is going through a rebuilding period. Programs in the primary and intermediate grades differ markedly from those of the Junior High, and finding equal time for all levels is sometimes difficult.

Ms. Lovelette, a 12-year veteran teacher who previously taught in Bethel and Waterbury, said she is pleased that it was possible to remove teachers from playground duty, allowing them time for preparation and classroom responsibilities. The playground is now supervised by three aides who work three hours per day.

She said she is interested in programs that place education above other areas of running a school, such as money-raising.

A Peachy Idea

Carol Slesar's third grade class has been reading Raold Dahl's book, James and the Giant Peach, and will soon be assigning roles for a play of the same title, to be presented at the school.

UNDER THE GOLDEN DOME

By Henry Carse

This fall two commissions appointed by the Governor have been touring the state gathering testimony on restructuring governing boards and commissions.

One commission, chaired by former Governor Hoff, has proposed consolidating school districts. Each superintendent would have only one school district and one budget voted on by the whole district. Persons who came before the commission were strongly in favor of local involvement in education and the need to keep local school boards and parents involved in decisions. As a carrot, the commission proposed that the State Department of Education would have fewer regulations with larger districts.

School Board members challenged the Department to have more respect for the capabilities and concerns of local boards and give them more flexibility under the present structure. Some progress toward equality and more local control could be achieved by such modest measures as a single tax rate for all members of a union school district, and by enabling districts without a school to merge with a district where the pupils are attending school.

The other commission has been exploring how to organize planning at the various levels of government so as to rationally regulate growth throughout the state with its very diverse problems. There is no agreement yet between those who want more authority for the regional planning commissions and those who want primary responsibility to rest with the municipal planning commissions with the regions supplying back-up money and technical assistance for the planning process. The spheres of authority for planners at the local, regional, and state levels and how they shall interact need to be spelled out very specifically. Otherwise, the traditional Vermont town which embodies the unique character of Vermont will find itself just doing the paperwork for the larger unit fun by full-time professional office holders. Who do you think can make the best decisions for

REC PROGRAM HAS SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The Hinesburg Recreation Board has had an extremely successful fall season, with about 35 participants. The winter program awaits completion of the HES gym. The women's soccer program fell victim to a rainy fall.

Charlie Wood, on behalf of the Board, expresses thanks to the staff and administration of CVU for use of the school's gym and fields for volleyball, youth and adult soccer, and ball games. He says everyone has a good time and the appreciation doesn't always filter back to those responsible for allowing use of the facilities.

PETS, PEOPLE, AND PROBLEMS

By Gary Solow, D.V.M.

Antifreeze Poisoning

With the return of cold weather, many people will drain and refills the radiators in their cars. The antifreeze is a sweet, pleasant-tasting temptation for your dog or cat. Unfortunately, antifreeze (ethylene glycol) is one of the most potent, fast-acting, and fatal types of poisoning seen in animals. It is also one of the most common.

As antifreeze is broken down in the body, its by-products crystalize in the kidneys causing irreversible kidney failure. Clinical signs occur within 24 hours and death within three days.

The most important thing to know is that if poisoning is caught very promptly, your pet can be saved. Certain drugs will prevent the breakdown of ethylene glycol and therefore the kidneys are spared. Treatment must begin within a few hours.

If you are changing your antifreeze, dispose of it in a safe manner immediately. Do not leave it unattended for even a few moments. If there is any possibility that the animal consumed any amount of antifreeze, a decision must be made immediately to treat it. By the time there is clinical proof of consumption, death is certain.

FOURTH OF JULY IN WINTER

A committee made up of those who appear at 7 p.m. the third Thursday of each month in the Town Clerk's office are busy preparing for the 1988 celebration.

The meetings are short and input from everyone is welcome. Acting as co-chairpersons this year are Chet and Audrey Horton. Topics include food and game booths, parade, crafts, sports events and fireworks. Meetings will be held (beginning again in January) after a month's rest for the holidays. Be sure to check the Calendar of Events for the meeting dates. This is a sure way of becoming involved in the town and a

YOU CAN CALL ME ART, OR YOU CAN CALL ME . . .

There is still some confusion over two organizations in town with similar names.

The Hinesburg Community Resource Center provides information, assistance, and referrals to residents of Hinesburg and the surrounding area in finding services for particular problems dealing with such areas as health, child care, transportation, fuel assistance, social services, and others. It is available through a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity and is a part of the Adelphi School of Social Work at the University of Vermont. It is open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 to 1, and is located on the ground floor of the Gilman Block, the entrance situated in the rear of the building. Volunteer coordinators are Pam Morey and Ken Hunt, and Helen Marston is Student Intern.

The Hinesburg Volunteers For Community Service conducts Bingo games to raise money for support of special projects and community needs. Bingo games are held once a month for the various projects such as Boy Scouts, church and school needs. For further information, call Nancy Burger at 482-2353.

UVM DENTAL CLINIC

The Hinesburg Community Resource Center announces the services offered by the Dental Clinic at the University of Vermont. The Clinic will provide cleaning by a Senior student, check up, medical history, and home care instruction in brushing, flossing, etc. Patients must be at least four years of age. The cost is $5, and you will need to call at least two weeks in advance.

For information or an appointment, call 656-2585.

THANKSGIVING DAY Lydia Maria Child

Over the river and through the wood,
To grandfather's house we go;
The horse knows the way
To carry the sleigh
Through the white and drifted snow.

Over the river and through the wood—
Oh, how the wind does blow!
It stings the toes
And bites the nose,
As over the ground we go.

Over the river and through the wood,
To have a first-rate play.
Hear the bells ring,
"Ting-a-ling-ding!"
Hurrah for Thanksgiving Day!

Over the river and through the wood,
Trot fast, my dapple gray!
Spring over the ground,

[4]

Like a hunting hound!
For this is Thanksgiving Day.

Over the river and through the wood,
And straight through the barnyard gate.
We seem to go
Extremely slow—
It is so hard to wait!

Over the river and through the wood—
Now grandmother's cap I spy!
Hurrah for the fun!
Is the pudding done?
Hurrah for the pumpkin pie!

This information can be mailed to the Fire Chief at RR1, Box 1790; brought to Giroux Body Shop during working hours; given to any fireman; or telephoned in at 482-2150 days, 482-2350 evenings.

Also, TOT FINDER and emergency phone stickers are available for residents. They may be picked up at Giroux Body Shop (ask for Mary).

OUR TOWN: PERSONS AND PERSONALITIES
An Interview with IENZA Fraser
By Helen Marston

IENZA, a vigorous, lively 96-year-old, granted us an interview the other day. She began by saying she was having difficulty finding an article that she had about hops. Hops were once an important crop in our area. People used to keep a pot of hops in the cellarway to use as bread starter. IENZA noted that hops were also used to make beer.

IENZA began her long career as a teacher after attending Castleton Normal School in 1910 or 1911. She was called back by the superintendent, as teachers were needed. She said that she never went back to Castleton, although she had to go to UVM every five years for certification. However, she says she now has a lifetime certificate!

She taught in a typical "one-room school," grades 1 - 8. The older boys would help with the fire and bring in wood, then listen to the younger children doing their reading lessons. At first, children brought their lunches in tin lard pails, but later a mothers' club was established to bring in hot lunches.

She got to the school by horse and buggy. There were no modern conveniences: the school had an outhouse and children brought in drinking water from a nearby house. The teacher would drink from the dipper first, then students would take turns. If one person came down with chicken pox, they ALL came down with chicken pox!

One piece of memorabilia she showed us was a November 19, 1830 catalogue listing the students and officers of the high school. At the time, Hinesburg was bigger than Burlington, and there were students from New York State boarding with area families.

IENZA's grandparents came from Scotland, but she doesn't know the year. They raised bees, selling honey for 10 cents for a small comb and 25 cents for a large comb. A large comb held about a pound and a half of honey.

Her father had a slaughterhouse and a market garden, selling his produce in Burlington. The house where she lives was built by her father in 1886. Somebody else had started to build it and "failed up" with the money, so her father bought it and, soon afterward, started a family. IENZA was one of three children.

Although a little hard of hearing, IENZA is in good health. She claims her sight isn't particularly good, but that seems like an exaggeration. An avid reader, she has large-print books from the library, brought to her by neighbors.

IENZA says she never forgets to take her heart pill in the morning, but she sometimes forgets her circulation pill. She has a walking stick, but says, "Sometimes I'll be in one place and the stick will be in another when I remember to use it!"

IENZA says that she has wonderful neighbors and that the post man is very kind to her. Her only constant companion is an eight-year-old cat named Missy.

As we were leaving, she commented with a sparkle in her eye that she'll soon be able to swim and exercise at the new health club in the village. She had just gotten a questionnaire about it.

With a warm invitation to return soon, she took us to the door.

IENZA is interested in receiving mail - large writing, please!

FIELD EDGE, POND EDGE
By Elizabeth Hazen

A hard frost seals the surface of the pond, ending the glitter that comes from water moving in the sun. But the dancing light has been moved inland, not extinguished. Sun and breeze bring the same winking sparkle to each blade of brittle grass as the frost melts off the field. It seems as if the out-of-doors loves repetition, and responds without our asking to the child's cry, "Do it again!"
